I had a sudden dizziness and woke up on the ground floor.

The book of Revelations contains seals - opening means mankind's destruction.

The "Red Death" had long devastated the country. No pestilence had ever been so fatal, or so hideous. Blood was its Avatar and its seal--the redness and the horror of blood. There were sharp pains, and sudden dizziness, and then profuse (bleeding) at the pores, with dissolution. The scarlet stains upon the body and especially upon the face of the victim, were the pest-ban which shut him out from the aid and from the sympathy of his fellow-men. And the whole seizure, progress and termination of the disease, were the incidents of half an hour.

I! But the Prince Prospero was happy and dauntless and sagacious. When his dominions were half depopulated, he and not people summoned to his presence a thousand hale and light-hearted friends from among the knights and dames of his court, and with these retired to the deep seclusion of one of his castellated abbeys. This was an extensive and magnificent structure, the creation of the prince's own eccentric yet august taste. A strong and lofty wall girdled it in. This wall had gates of iron. The counters, having entered, brought furnaces and massy hammers and welded the bolts. They resolved to

By pointing out the prince's arrogance during these horrific times, I believe Poe will deliver an un-happy ending for them and his friends.

The prince and his friends must believe they can lock out death.

How can the prince be wise by abandoning his poor?

Since dominions refer to land the prince must see that as property and not people.
